

IDA 2013 regular poster & video information

Presenting your poster

You are expected to prepare and bring a poster for presentation during the poster session, which is scheduled for Friday 18 October in the afternoon. The size of the poster boards is 180cm x 120cm (height x width); an A0 poster will easily fit.

Spotlight presentations

At the start of the poster session, authors of accepted poster papers are encouraged to give a spotlight presentation in which they present their work in two minutes time to attract the attention of the audience to their posters.

Note that two minutes is a hard time limit! Use the spotlight to present the problem and key results in a few slides, not to present your complete paper in 10+ slides. The main goal is to attract people to your poster, where you will have plenty of time to explain and discuss your work in detail.

When preparing your slides, ensure that they can be rendered to a PDF (including fonts) so that they can all be displayed from a single, central computer. Please e-mail your slides to ida2013.posters@gmail.com before the symposium.

Video competition & prize

You may participate in this year's video competition by submitting a video or screencast of at most two minutes length, which will be shown during the breaks. The best video presentation will be awarded a prize of 300 EUR.

Some of last year's videos, including the prize winner, can be watched in our IDA YouTube channel: <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCH610VbBqhsIzMau1ghTm-g>

This year's submissions will all be published in our channel after the symposium.

Please make sure that your video:

- contains a title page (title, authors, affiliations);
- takes no more than 2 minutes;
- is recorded in one of the formats supported by YouTube (see below);
- has a resolution of 1024x768 at most;
- is understandable even if the sound is not (completely) audible;
- does not use third-party material for which you do not have the necessary permissions;
- focuses on a take-away message you can convey within two minutes time.

You may use whatever means to create your video: you may use your digital camera on a tripod, your webcam while sitting in front of your computer, you may record your desktop while showing a few slides (screencast), etc. Be creative! Please take into account that the video will be shown during the breaks at the conference (which is quite different from watching a YouTube video in your quiet office), so do not rely on the audio channel alone to transport your key message.

Video submission

Videos up to 25 megabytes may be submitted directly by e-mail to ida2013.posters@gmail.com. For larger files, please use a cloud service like www.wetransfer.com or www.dropbox.com and send a download link to the same e-mail address.

Together with your video, we require you to send us a filled in and signed release form (see attachment). By signing this release form, you permit us to publish your video on our website and our YouTube channel.

We encourage you to submit an initial version of your video no later than Monday, October 7, so that there is time to solve format/encoding issues, etc. Final versions must be submitted no later than Monday, October 14.
